All of the graduates from NJC were entered into the National Clearinghouse to track what colleges or universities they attended after NJC. The clearinghouse has information from a high percentage of higher ed institutions, but they don't have all of them. They also match on name and birthdate, so if there is an issue with name changes or alternate spellings or the person attends a school that is not registered with the clearinghouse, sometimes the person will not show up. This doesn't mean those people did not attend other schools, but that they just could not be matched in the data base.

For students that earned a transfer degree at NJC, each year between 76% and 85% of them attended another higher ed institution after they left NJC. Out of those found by clearinghouse, 53% of the students that earned a transfer degree at NJC earned a bachelor's degree or higher or are still enrolled in school for the students that graduated between Summer 2006 and Spring 2008.

When looking at the students that graduated from NJC between Summer 2008 and Spring 2010 that number jumps to 56.7% but many more (20%) are still enrolled so there is a higher chance they will not complete.

For all NJC transfer degree graduates from Summer 2006 to Spring 2010, 245 of them earned some sort of degree or certificate after leaving NJC. That is 43.7% of the total transfer graduates that could be found in clearinghouse. There are also 78 (13.9%) of the transfer graduates still enrolled in college. Total (57.6%)

It is important to remind everyone that the students in this list completed a degree or certificate at NJC. There are other NJC students in this time frame that transferred to higher ed universities that never formally graduated from NJC so they don't show up on this list.
